

STOCK CONTROL BILL APPROVED BY BOTH HOUSES

Measure Is Despatched To Roosevelt For Signature

By Nathan Robertson.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Washington, June 1.—(AP)—The stock exchange control bill reached the end of a long, dispute-strewn pathway through Congress tonight with final approval by both houses.

House and Senate, without record votes, and with little debate, accepted the conference report compromising controversies between the two branches, and the measure was despatched to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature.

Administration assurances to the industrial and financial world that the bill's rider modifying the securities act of 1933 would protect honest business men marked final action on the measure in the Senate.

Strike Suits.
[This assurance was voiced by Senator Byrnes, (D., S. C.), an administration spokesman who led the move to modify the securities act. Byrnes conceded that under the present law corporation officials had been fearful of "strike suits," but added:

"It is a fair statement that under the new law, the provisions as to the civil liability of the underwriter, or of the officers and directors of a corporation are so amended that no honest man need have any fear of the law so long as he is willing to give to the corporation in which he is an officer and in which he has invested his money, the same reasonable care that he gives to the management of his own property."

Byrnes spoke after the Senate had adopted the conference report without a record vote. The unanimity of the action was in sharp contrast to the conflict and controversy which accompanied the bill's previous course through Congress.

As finally approved by the Senate, the bill provides for the creation of a new commission of five members to be appointed by the president, to regulate the nation's stock exchanges. Margin regulations will be set up by the Federal Reserve Board to control advances of credit by banks or brokers on the purchase of securities.

Through the board will not have to comply, the law will carry a congressional suggestion that credit be limited to 55 per cent of the current value of a security, or 100 per cent of the lowest price it touched in the preceding three years provided this was not more than 75 per cent of the current price.

Prohibitions will be contained in the law against manipulative operations, and the commission will have power to require full financial reports from corporations listing securities.

In the only general discussion of the bill, Senator Hastings, (R., Del.), warned it would "do more harm than good," if not properly administered.

"The only hope," he added, "is an administration of the law in a proper way with the interests of the country at heart and without effort to put corporations under the control of the commission."

The Senate banking committee voted to ask the Senate for authority to continue their power to investigate stock exchanges and banks through the next session of Congress.

The committee approved a resolution offered by Chairman Fletcher continuing the committee's authority, but providing no new funds.

Half-Starved And Vermin Covered Child Is Found

San Juan Capistrano, Calif., June 1.—(AP)—Half starved and covered with vermin, seven-year-old Mary Ebarquary was placed in the Orange county hospital today to undergo treatment for malnutrition.

District Attorney S. B. Kaufman said he was preparing to file a charge against the mother, Mrs. Barney Ebarquary, of unjustified cruelty to a minor. He said he was informed the mother and the seven brothers and sisters of the child regarded Mary as a curse upon the family.

Mrs. Ebarquary was questioned after neighbors reported she had forced the child to spend long periods in a chicken coop.

The mother denied she had been unjustifiably cruel to her daughter. Kaufman said a neighbor reported she was attracted to the plight of the Ebarquary girl when she discovered her own child taking bread from the pantry and feeding the child in the coop.

FILIBUSTER IN NATIONAL HOUSE BROUGHT TO END

Most Drastic Rules Of Procedure Are Adopted

By Frank B. Harper.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Washington, June 1.—(AP)—Amid hoots and catcalls, the house ended today by adopting a rule that gave the majority power to cram through legislation speedily and unaltered to hasten adjournment.

In the confusion and tension that had kept members voting almost steadily for more than 12 hours, the sergeant at arms was forced to intervene to prevent a fist fight between two members just before the roll call that clamped upon the house one of the most drastic rules of procedure ever invoked there.

Representatives Deen (D., Ga.) and Eltee (R., Calif.) were about to square away for fistfights because of Deen's efforts to hold Democrats in line when the sergeant at arms reached them.

The final tally on the vote to invoke the new rule of procedure was 234 to 21.

Eight roll calls forced by the Republicans yesterday in a session which kept the house going until late in the night and a renewal of the same tactics today had caused Democratic leaders to fear they might not be able to meet the early June adjournment date that had been set.

Numerous pieces of administration legislation are yet to be disposed of. Another provision of the rule adopted also would enable leaders to avoid votes which might otherwise have been forced on the McLeod bank pay-off measure.

"I should be ashamed to admit if we were in a majority of 300 to 100, that we were unable to manage the house under our own rules," was Republican Leader Snell's observation after the rule had been adopted by the Democrats. x x x

The rule adopted was one which would allow the speaker at any time during the remainder of the session to recognize a member to bring up a bill under a motion which would ban both debate and amendments.

It would require a two-thirds majority to pass the bill under such procedure but administration leaders were confident they would be able to muster such support for all the remaining bills that will face the house at this Congress.

Snell said the rule was one that "gives the speaker more power than Joe Cannon ever dreamed of," and told newspapermen Rainey had tried to be an autocrat and a dictator like all weak men when given responsibility.

Before passage today of the comparatively minor bills—one to diversify prison industries—on which the filibuster had started, the Republicans had forced the house to listen to the clerk read an hour's account of its yesterday's proceedings and through roll calls had held up proceedings for two hours and a half.

Even on the adoption of the rule the Republicans forced three roll calls, each requiring half an hour.

Five Democrats—Hoepfel of California, Connery of Massachusetts, Crocker and Sweeney of Ohio, and Dunn of Pennsylvania—voted with the Republicans.

An effort by Deen to have Hoepfel change his vote led to his dispute with Eltee.

Snell in a statement issued after the rule was adopted said:

"The action of the house today is entirely in keeping with the action of the administration, not only to make a dictator of the president, but in the house to make dictators of the speaker and majority leaders."

SPECIAL LABOR BOARD STUDIES STEEL TROUBLE

Attempt Being Made To Avert Strike In Industry

By Elton C. Fay.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Washington, June 1.—(AP)—A special labor board for the steel industry—a method of settlement applied to a previous threat of industrial war—was studied tonight as a means for warding off the menace of a huge steel strike.

Even while government officials considered this suggestion, used in the instance of the automobile trouble two months ago, they were at grips with a problem of equal magnitude, the threat of a strike that might send 300,000 cotton textile workers into the street.

Conferences and hotel room meetings today produced alternating reports of hope and despair of settlement, maintaining the tensely of the situation.

The steel workers, after spending hours in conferences with Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator; Robert S. Wagner, chairman of the national labor board, and others, had left the city.

They left behind them two impressions—that the workers themselves were divided in ideas and that at least one group wanted to wait and see what effect President Roosevelt's order reviving the steel code had on their case. The other group said it wanted action.

The textile trouble was more imminent. Whereas the steel situation threatened to crystallize into strike action not earlier than mid-June, the cotton workers proposed to wait out within the next three days.

At the basis of the cotton textile trouble was the new NRA order clipping production by the industry 25 per cent during the slack season of three months, starting Monday.

This, the workers informed the NRA, newspaper reporters and the public at large, meant a corresponding reduction in the code minimum pay rates of $12 and $13 weekly.

Involved in the workers' demands was the insistence that the "stretch-out" system must go. The system allows for the increase of production by the use of more machines although the augmented number of machines are operated by the same number of men.

The textile workers, represented by Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, and a few associates, had an hour's conference with Johnson today after the administrator earlier had talked with a spokesman for the industry, George A. Sloan, head of the Textile Institute. The conference broke up for a recess at mid-day, with the promise it would be resumed.

Johnson, in a talk with reporters today, disclosed that the administration felt the actual over-act in the steel situation still remained to be brought to the attention of the recovery administration.

THREE ALLEGED DILLINGER GANG ASSOCIATES HELD

Trio of Young Women in Custody of Chicago Officers

Chicago, June 1.—(AP)—Three young women, alleged to have been associated with various members of the gang of desperadoes headed by John Dillinger, Indiana's most notable contribution to the criminal rosters, were seized today by police.

Two were taken in a raid on the Chateau hotel, the third was picked up through a telephone call in which she tried to ascertain whether the others had been arrested.

The three were named as Opal Long, 28, otherwise known as Mrs. Beatrice Clark; Miss Virginia Hughes, 20, and Miss Jean Burke, 28. Their names have been variously associated with John Hamilton, Harry Pierpont and Charles Russell, all Dillinger gangsters. Miss Burke was believed to have been the sweetheart of Arthur (Fish) Johnson, Dillinger contact man.

Almost as soon as she had been arrested, Miss Burke was the beneficiary of a writ of habeas corpus filed in criminal court and returnable tomorrow at 10:00 A. M.

Police also seized an automobile bought by Mrs. Clark in Detroit April 20. It had been driven 15,000 miles and contained well thumbed road maps of Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Texas and Michigan.

Their room in the hotel had been watched by the Dillinger squads of police and federal operatives for several days, in hope that one or more of the much-wanted gangsters would appear there. The women denied all knowledge of the fugitives.

Meredith visitors here yesterday included Warren Irving.

Heat Wave Continues To Sweep Nation With Thermometers In Northwest Hitting New Highs

Peotone Citizens Are Happy, "Shoe Ripper" Captured

Peotone, Ill., June 1.—(AP)—Peotone heaved a sigh of well earned relief today and knew that its shoes were at least safe.

For a month citizens have hardly dared to leave so much as a pair of bedroom slippers unguarded, for the Peotone shoe bandit was at large, working by night, he slipped into one home after another—well, anyway four—and ripped up some 25 pairs of shoes—men's, ladies' and children's sizes.

Today Deputy Dan Knowlton, who had lost one pair of men's oxfords, set a trap for the marauder. He left the Knowlton door open.

In came a slight, furtive figure who headed for the closet of Knowlton's bedroom. The deputy pounced and caught a 15 year old schoolboy.

At the jail, Hainz Schmidt, just out of the eighth grade, confessed he was the shoe ripper.

"First I tore up some of my teacher's shoes because I had a grudge against her," he said. "Then I had to tear up some more so they wouldn't suspect me. I didn't mean any harm."

G.O.P. LEADERS ORGANIZE FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

Question Of Raising Funds Is Proving Troublesome

Springfield, Ill., June 1.—(AP)—Faced with the troublesome question of raising funds, Illinois republican leaders today took further steps to organize for the fall campaign.

While a committee was named to direct the republican campaign for the state senate, Justus L. Johnson of Aurora, chairman of the state central committee, issued a statement saying:

"We have the issues this year; we must find friends who will help to meet the expenses. x x x

"We can add six republican congressmen to the Washington delegation and elect a republican house at Springfield."

Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, chairman of the republican caucus in the state senate, appointed the five members of the republican campaign senate committee.

The members are Senators Simon E. Lantz of Conserville, Charles W. Baker of Monroe Center, James J. Barbour of Evanston, Arnold T. Benson of Batavia and Ray Paddock of Rock Lake. None are candidates this year.

Searcy said the committee would coordinate its activities with Johnson's state-wide organization. Republicans have no hope of getting control of the Senate before 1936, but Searcy said every effort would be made to cut down the democratic majority.

Johnson indicated the new chairman of the republican executive committee would be Perry B. McCullough of Lawrenceville, who was state chairman four years ago. The reorganization is expected to be completed when the state committee meets at Chicago Monday afternoon.

Thomas J. Houston of Chicago is slated to take charge of the committee on finance.

Assisting in the republican campaign will be Don Garrison of Rushville, former assistant director of public works. He is not a state committeeman.

The approach of the congressional election, Johnson said, "makes it necessary to check on destructive policies and aid for constructive improvement. With plenty of issues, the organization has never been so depleted financially for campaign expenses."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS AT DOUGLAS HOME

Miss Mary Douglas assisted by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Douglas entertained the members of the Everready Sunday school class of the Pisgah Presbyterian church Thursday morning. The evening was spent in games, contests and music. Prizes were awarded to Georgianna Greenleaf, John Biggs, Gladys Duke, and Junior Greenleaf, a group captioned by Harold Patterson.

At a late hour dainty refreshments were served.

Those present were Gladys, Lena and Levis Duke; Helen Jackson, Edna, Dorothy Patterson, Dorothy, Mildred, Marjorie Smith, Frances and Alice Grider, Helen Davis, Georgianna Greenleaf, Charles Davis, John Biggs, Elmo Tipps, Leland Grider, William McKean, Harold and William Patterson, Charles and Leroy Jackson, Junior Greenleaf, Mr. and Mrs. James Heaton, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Scott, Winston and Donald Douglas.

(By the Associated Press.)
New and gloomier pictures of crop damage were painted yesterday by unofficial statisticians as June started to outdo May in the setting of records for heat and drought.

Four leading grain crops are expected to yield only 54.3 per cent of normal, according to an average of unofficial forecasts by four widely known crop reporting experts attached to brokerage firms on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Deterioration of wheat has been faster than at any time in the history of American agriculture, one report said, amounting to 108,000,000 bushels in the last month.

E. W. Snow, one of the experts, described the drought as "the most severe and most widely extended at this date during the entire history of crop reporting."

Oats is expected to yield 56.6 per cent of normal and rye 48.5 per cent. No figures were given for corn as it was said to be too early for estimates.

Rain cooled Montana and parts of Minnesota and North Dakota, but elsewhere temperatures reached all time highs almost without exception.

However, a snow storm followed a heavy rain into Butte, Mont., and another fall prevented a high school picnic near Walla Walla, Wash.

Rains visited St. Louis and central Illinois.

Allotments totalling $5,476,000 for drought relief in ten states were announced at Washington, with an indication that the amounts may be increased before the month is over.

Trading Brisk.
Trading in wheat continued briskly at Chicago and Minneapolis, but profit taking and reports of rain in Saskatchewan sent the market tumbling after prices had advanced more than four cents. The close was about a cent under Thursday's final prices.

Wheat and corn fields of the mid-west, already badly burned out, sacrificed additional thousands of bushels to the sun god as all time heat records piled up.

An official temperature of 102.2 in Chicago at 2:30 p. m. set a new June mark there and was only 7 of a degree under the all time, any month record of 102.9 set July 21, 1901. But downcasters cast envious eyes on Chicago, for their thermometers soared even higher. The official reading at Morris, Ill., was 107 degrees.

To conserve as far as possible all feed in the state for suffering livestock, Governor Floyd Olson of Minnesota declared an immediate embargo on all shipments of livestock into the state for feeding or grazing purposes. The executive order declared an "unprecedented emergency" exists because of the drought.

In Iowa, where every weather bureau station in the state reported temperatures of 101 degrees or higher for Thursday, heavy dust storms blanketed fields and towns. Lowered temperatures, however, brought a measure of relief. The moderation was especially welcome at Waterloo, where the mercury had climbed to 106 degrees.

Temperatures ranged down to the 80s in South Dakota, following a week of erratic weather which brought intensive heat, wind storms, hail, rain and dust to the state. Small buildings, telephone poles and fences were swept down by gales around Sioux Falls and Aberdeen.

Feeding on underlike vegetation, forest fires raged in Wisconsin, Maine and the Adirondacks of New York.

Farmers were forced to flee for their lives as forest fire ravished 1,280 acres of land near Menominee, Wis. National Guardsmen were rushed to McMahon's Island, near Georgian, Me., on reports that a forest and brush fire was threatening 50 large summer estates. Later they reported the blaze extinguished.

A fire near Rerrick, N. Y., called the worst in 20 years, had burned a tract seven miles long.

Governor Louis J. Brann of Maine closed all streams to fishing because of serious forest fire menace existing in all parts of the state, and banned smoking or the building of fires in woods. Recent fires have laid waste nearly 30,000 acres of woodland in the state.

Brush and forest fires at Onamia, Minn., were brought under control.

A light sprinkle in the extreme northwest portion of Wisconsin lowered temperatures there to around the 50 degree mark. No rain was expected in other parts of the state, where heat records were shattered Thursday. Janesville saw an official reading of 110 degrees, while Eau Claire sweltered under a temperature of 107.

WEED COMMISSIONERS

Springfield, Ill., June 1.—(AP)—To cooperate in its state-wide weed eradication campaign, the department of agriculture today announced that county boards have named 509 noxious weed commissioners. L. A. Moore, superintendent of plant industry, said the work would be extended into every county.

MEMBERSHIP ADVANCES
Chicago, June 1.—(AP)—A membership on the Chicago Board of Trade was sold today for $7,200, an advance of $700 over the last previous transfer. The next exchange seat, it was announced, is offered at $8,000.

MARY PICKFORD TAKES STEP IN DIVORCE SUIT

Actress Obtains Order To Get Service On Fairbanks

Los Angeles, June 1.—(AP)—Altho frequent reports have been circulated that Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford would become reconciled, the actress today went ahead with the next step in her suit for divorce.

Through her attorneys, Lloyd Wright and Charles E. Millikan, Miss Pickford obtained a superior court order permitting her to obtain service on her actor husband by publication, since he is in England.

Miss Pickford filed an affidavit to accompany the order in which she stated that Fairbanks left California May 23, 1933, and that his present address is United Artists Studio, London.

Mary Silent
"Miss Pickford has nothing to say at this time," Wright said. "Within 30 days we will obtain legal jurisdiction in the case and then hearings may be set."

Hollywood's "perfect marriage" was upset legally last December 9 when Miss Pickford filed suit for divorce, charging her husband with mental cruelty.

The couple married March 20, 1920, and were thought of in the film colony as the happiest and most perfectly mated screen celebrities.

Three years ago, however, Fairbanks began his wanderings, taking trips to remote parts of the world, making pictures.

Rumors about an impending separation legally were quickly and emphatically denied by both parties. Shortly after Fairbanks returned from one of his wanderings, and left for England, the divorce suit quieted all wagging tongues on that score.

Friends, however, have been insisting the noted screen couple would be reunited. Fairbanks purchased a 3,000-acre ranch near San Diego, spending approximately $1,000,000 on the land and improvements and recently disclosed plans to build a new home there.

Miss Pickford, friends insisted, would join her husband on the ranch when the building program was completed.

"America's sweetheart," however, has remained strictly silent on her marital affairs.

Whether the legal action today was just a legal step and nothing more, or whether it indicated Miss Pickford had definitely decided to obtain the divorce could not be learned from the actress or her attorney.

Fairbanks and Miss Pickford have separate incomes and individual property. It was announced after the divorce suit was filed that Fairbanks had given Miss Pickford their Beverly Hills mansion, Pickfair.

POISON CHEWING GUM DISTRIBUTED AT SACRAMENTO

Sticks Found To Contain Enough Poison To Kill Dozen People

Sacramento, Calif., June 1.—(AP)—What authorities believed to be a plot to poison an entire neighborhood was uncovered by police tonight when four sample sticks of chewing gum left at the home of Mrs. George McNeiz were found to contain a deadly poison.

Similar sticks of gum were found on the steps of adjoining houses, but an analysis for poison in them will not be completed until tomorrow.

Mrs. McNeiz, a divorcee, said she found the gum on the front porch of her home when she returned from work Tuesday night.

"I just dropped the sample package in my purse and thought no more about it until at work the next night," she said. "I opened one piece and as I touched it to my tongue I noticed it had a bitter taste so I didn't start to chew it."

Burr T. Snyder, city chemist, completed an analysis of the chewing gum and announced each of the four sticks in the sample package contained "enough poison to kill a dozen people."

The poison, a white powder, had been carefully spread over the gum and then covered with the powdered sugar that usually is found on gum. The package in which the gum was contained was a small brown envelope on which the word "sample" had been typewritten. Identical envelopes were found at two other houses in the same block.

WHEAT BRINGS $1.67

First Worth, Tex., June 1.—(AP)—The first two cars of 1934 wheat to reach a terminal grain market in the United States arrived here today from Grand Field, Okla. Sold before its arrival. One car brought $1.07 a bushel on the basis of delivery at Galveston. The other, consigned a commission firm for sale on the market here, had not been sold.

Kermit Johnson of Ashland was visiting with friends here yesterday.

Robert Willis Has New "Racket" But It Cost Him $25

Chicago, June 1.—(AP)—Robert Willis, late of Waco, Texas, claimed he was a magician and could take rabbits out of hats, make an old fashioned cocktail disappear and what not, but it was his telephone act that was the best.

A policeman and a judge, however, didn't think so much of it and Willis paid a $25 fine today. His telephone act, police said, consisted of plugging up coin boxes in telephone booths at the world's fair. Then when people failed to get the number and the coin was returned it was stopped by the plug. Police said that Willis after a day or so would go over his route of 75 telephones, remove the plugs and collect a lot of nickels.

DEAD SOLDIERS ARE MUTILATED BOLIVIA CLAIMS

Charge Paraguayans Have "Quartered" Bodies

La Paz, Bolivia, June 1.—(AP)—Charges that "defeated Paraguayan troops" scalped, quartered and otherwise mutilated bodies of slain Bolivian soldiers in the Chaco were made in an official communique today.

In another statement, the Bolivian high command flatly denied the claim made in Asuncion that Paraguay had won a notable victory, taking 15 miles of defense works in the "Canada strongest" sector.

The communique attributing acts of barbarism to the enemy follows:

"The defeated Paraguayan troops committed acts of savagery on the bodies of some of our dead soldiers."

"We cite concrete cases to be denounced in the public opinion of America."

"Private Felix Callisaya Guzman was quartered after his death. The body of private Pascual Avila Chavez was horribly mutilated."

"The head of sergeant Francisco Rodriguez was battered with a rifle butt and afterwards he was scalped with a machete."

"Divisional commanders are protesting against these outrages and there is profound indignation among Bolivian soldiers in all sectors."

"The Paraguayan announcement of victory is entirely false," said the high command's communique. "In the sector occupied by the third division there have occurred only unimportant exchanges of fire. The Paraguayans have not captured any arms, prisoners or munitions."

Asuncion, Paraguay, June 1.—(AP)—Claims of a victory in the Chaco jungle war in which fifteen miles of Bolivian defense works were captured and 150 of the enemy soldiers killed, were made today by the Paraguayan ministry of defense.

The official communique said that the dead left behind included five lieutenants and that the third Bolivian division was forced to retreat. The advancing Paraguayans, it added, are consolidating their position in the "Canada strongest" sector.

The drive's objective is the Bolivian key defense position, Fort Ballivian. Reports that Captain Chero, Bolivian air hero, had been killed were published in newspapers here today, but lacked official confirmation.

MACMURRAY GROUPS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

Last evening the literary societies of MacMurray College held their annual banquets and each group carried out an interesting program arranged for the occasion. The Belles Lettres met at 7:00 o'clock at the D. A. B. chapter, the Colony Inn held its reunion at the Colony Inn at 7:00 o'clock; Lambda Alpha Mu met at the Country club at 7 o'clock, and Theta Sigma had its banquet at the New Dunlap at 8 o'clock.

Following the banquets, at 10 o'clock the students, faculty and friends of the college met on the campus in front of the dining hall to take part in the campus sing. Miss Aurelle Proctor was chairman of the student committee for this occasion.

The program of events for Saturday is as follows:

9:30 a.m.—Annual meeting of trustees and visitors, MacMurray hall, room 7.

10:00 a.m.—5 p.m.—School of Fine Arts exhibit, Art studio.

1:00 p.m.—Class reunions.

3:00 p.m.—Class Day exercises, campus.

5:45 p.m.—Alumnae dinner, College Dining hall.

Alumni Banquets

Two former college room mates, out of school some 20 years, corresponded regularly for a year or two, and then the press of business put old friendship into the background of memories. They lost track of each other, in a way or didn't make an effort to carry that warm friendship of youth into more mature years. Each resolved that when he did meet the old pal there would be a grand reunion, a safe-fest in which things of the past would be checked over in general. They had much in common during college days.

Then the reunion took place. One of the friends of college days was an invited guest for one night in the home of the other. He couldn't remain longer, because modern business must be served. The next day he must rush back to his office.

The old chums clapped hands, slapped each other's backs. It looked like a reunion in which old scenes would be recalled, old friendships discussed; college days talked over with a wealth of reminiscences from which to draw. The guest desired to share before dinner. His host accompanied him to his room. The talk started. Was it about their Junior year? Their experience as Seniors? Not at all—it was about shaving cream.

Those two middle-aged gentlemen who as youths belonged to the same society, played on the same football team, paired up on double dates and the like, talked shaving cream until dinner.

Conversation drifted to razors. It continued even after the dinner hour. Likes and dislikes of this brand and that, were freely voiced. There was no mention of the old campus, or of the friends of a score of years ago.

It was the present that furnished the subject of conversation during their visit—not the past. These gentlemen had been out of touch with each other so long they hit upon a common subject and stayed there. They talked of more trifivialities.

Had they met each year, at an alumni reunion, for the renewal of friendship this state of affairs never would have existed. They expected the other to be the same old fellow, but 20 years is a considerable time. It was too great a test for intimate friendship. They were practically strangers when they met after all the years.

This is the season of high school and college alumni banquets, where the graduates of all ages get together for sociability. Graduates of all schools owe it to themselves and to their friends to lay aside everyday duties if possible and join in these festivities. They keep alive the spirit of cordiality, tiding over the years with enduring friendship. Such affairs keep friendships from growing stale.

Roosevelt and The Navy
President Roosevelt has the navy back on the Atlantic seaboard. He gave the fleet a review this week and thoroughly enjoyed the experience. He is a navy man and Uncle Sam's sea forces lie close to his heart.

At the age of fourteen Roosevelt was reading heavy tomes on naval matters. He was assistant secretary of the navy while the nation was building and using in war the largest fleet in its history. He was next to Josephus Daniels, who did more for the navy than any other civilian and who still manifests a great pride in the big ships.

The United States is fortunate in having as president one who loves the navy, for this country now needs a big navy more than it has needed one in years. The return of the fleet to the eastern coast is designed to make the east navy-conscious, so that the government can stand more of a chance to get the money it needs to build up the navy.

Japan regards the departure of the fleet from the Pacific as a friendly gesture. A minister in an American city hails its review by the president as an orgy of barbarism. The American people do not take much interest in the navy, and they need to realize that the fleet is really the nation's very first line of defense, when it is properly equipped with fighting planes and submarines.

Keeping Paid Up

Prof. J. B. Morgan of Northwestern University is a psychologist; he views the depression as a psychopathic situation induced by fear. The fear was for the credit structure which we had built to enormous proportions. That fear caused men to undertake greater expansion, and eventually the saturation point was reached, the bubble burst, and we had the depression.

The professor urges that we pay up what we owe, or get it off the slate somehow, and that we make no new bills. He proposes to put a stop to credit inflation and thus to the fear which leads men beyond the danger point in speculation and expansion.

Some people are doubtful whether we would be as progressive or prosperous under a scheme of pay-as-you-go transactions, but it is fairly certain it would be a good idea for the man with a medium of ready cash. He should at least limit his debts according to his ability to pay. He should understand that all debts have to be paid sometime, unless of course they are war debts.

"Exile University"

Within the New School of Research in New York there is a group of German professors and teachers, exiled from their own country, but made welcome in the United States. They have been employed for the past year and have been enabled to continue their research activities.

The experiment has proved so successful that it has been assured for another year. Those who have seen the work of these distinguished German educators are satisfied and pleased that they are here. What is Germany's loss bids fair to be America's gain.

The shortsighted Hitler policy of interfering with the German teachers and research workers has driven from Germany some of her best minds. Nations with more enlightened policies are quick to see the advantage of having these men come into their midst and have extended them opportunities.

The United States, with its wealth, can afford to bring to its schools and universities Germany's best, and make them available to thousands of young Americans as teachers. At the same time the flow of American students to Germany is checked. It is no longer necessary for our people to go abroad to study. It is possible that the center of learning can be moved across the Atlantic, and that the flow of students will be reversed.

The German people will awake some day, perhaps too late to realize their tremendous loss. Austria, too, has been the loser by the stern fascist rule for the work of the great Vienna medical center has been hampered. It is not unlikely that American medical men will soon be able to get in this country every advantage they once had abroad, with even greater facilities for research.

Women and Child Labor

The national child labor amendment seemed a year ago to be headed for early acceptance. Then the opposition suddenly consolidated its forces and checked the progress of ratification. George A. Hastings, extension director of President Hoover's Conference on Child Health and Protection, describes what happened.

"All the forces of legalism, reaction and commercial greed, and often of misinterpretation have solidified their ranks against the ratification of that amendment. The sixteen states yet needed will be harder to win than the twenty thus far on the right side."

Addressing the fortieth annual convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's clubs he told them that if their state federation and others took the lead, the campaign for ratification of the child labor amendment could be quickly won.

At least, the thinking women of the nation owe it to themselves to study the proposed amendment with open minds, to learn how various states now protect children and to investigate the evils of child labor in states where there is least protection. After such study they could form their own opinions and conclusions intelligently without being misled by any group of propagandists.

Reducing Crops

Mother Nature is going in for crop reduction in a big way and continuing her methods for much longer she may make the government appear nothing more than a piker in this field. A scorching sun and continued drought are cutting probable crops many thousands of bushels every hour of every day.

Unlike the farmer under the government's crop reduction plan, she is not limited to a certain percentage of reduction. She can continue just as long as she sees fit, and she is always secretive about her future plans.

From the outset there has been a question as to whether an actual surplus of commodities really exists. In face of contentions that there is a great surplus, other authorities have contended that if all people were enabled to consume all that they really need that the surpluses would not exist.

The average man can accept either opinion. He certainly cannot undertake a survey to decide for himself. But any man can recognize the effects of weather such as the farms of this country are now experimenting. He knows that fruit and vegetables as well as field crops are being literally burned up. He also knows that if this weather continues, this country may need all of its acres to supply the nation's food.

If nature has taken over the job that they set out to do, heads of the agricultural administration should not be hesitant to give up their part of the program and thereby prevent a duplication. A doubling up of efforts might prove to be extremely serious. Farmer and consumer alike, can weather periods of surplus much easier than famine.

The New Deal in Washington

Housing Program Menaced

By Mortgage Barons . . . F.

R. Still Calls Daniels Chief

. . . U. S. Isn't Spending

Enough, Says Famed Economist . . . NRA Stays in

State of Turmoil.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal-Courier Washington
Correspondent

Washington, June 1.—Mortgage interests, chiefly the building and loan boys, will scuttle the new housing program in Congress if they can.

They have two reasons:

1. They don't want new housing until they have unloaded the mortgages which piled up on them during the depression.

2. The government's new plan for mortgage financing means competition from interest rates much lower than they've been charging.

The same interests have latched every real housing effort here since 1930, so it may be a question of how badly Roosevelt wants this one to go through.

Of course the big idea of the renovation-construction program is to get money back into the mortgage market to stimulate construction and production of goods needed for it.

Home-building borrowers would save from 10 to 30 per cent through elimination of high interest and other charges assessed under the old system of high rates to borrowers and no security to lenders.

Second mortgages, which used to cost from 15 to 25 per cent by the time the home owner paid all the charges, would be eliminated, along with the old-fashioned gypplings.

New mortgage money should sell for 5 per cent in the east and 6 per cent in sections where money is scarce and rates are high, the bills sponsors believe.

The proposed insurance fund to cover risks on the 20-year amortization loans would make such low rates safe.

F. R. Calls One Man "Chief"

Only one man gets the thrill of being addressed as "Chief" by Roosevelt himself.

That's Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico, who has been here lately.

When Daniels was secretary of the navy, Roosevelt was an assistant secretary. For years he called the older man "Chief." Now he sometimes lapses back into it and Daniels tells him he has to get over that.

Spends More, U. S. Urged

Roosevelt has been advised to spend money more liberally than he already has. The advice came from none other than John Maynard Keynes, outstanding British economist who is in this country quietly looking over the New Deal and who paid an unostentatious visit to the White House.

Keynes thinks the administration's financial policy has been conservative rather than radical. He is enthusiastic over the New Deal, but insists that it should not hesitate to expend more money, without worrying about the raising of the necessary cash.

That may sound funny, but Keynes is convinced that money is something about which people have many illusions and that we are far from the limit of the government's credit.

He spoke enthusiastically of the pending home renovation-construction bill and reported to Roosevelt that nothing had been more helpful in England's recovery than construction of thousands of new middle-class homes.

Nation-wide removal of grade crossings, he thought, would be a valuable public works program, because it would spread all over the country.

NRA Still in Turmoil

NRA isn't quite the madhouse it was when it started nearly a year ago, but it displays just as much essential confusion.

After the order creating a nine-man board to pass on codes, representing industry, labor and consumers, the staffs of the Industrial, Labor and Consumers' Advisory Boards became badly demoralized by rumors that they were about to be wiped out.

The Labor Board's vigorous public attack on the Darrow report arose from that confusion.

Member Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, had bawled out the Darrow board, accusing it of listening to chiselers and sweat-shoppers. His blast was carefully called to Johnson's attention.

Then member John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, came out of Johnson's office to tell Hillman how pleased the general was and how much more he'd be pleased if the LAB itself would attack the Darrow outfit.

The board met and decided it would be good policy to line up with Johnson. Afterward it asked and received assurance from Johnson that it would continue to exist and operate as is. (Probably there never was any intention to abolish the advisory boards.)

May Sets All-time Drouth Record with 0.28-inch Rainfall

May established for itself a new record for dryness, and also a record for all months, as far as this section of the country is concerned, according to the monthly survey of weather issued Friday from the Norbury Sanitarium Co-operative Weather Station. The precipitation for May was only 38 one-hundredths of an inch. Rain fell on four days during the month, and the greatest precipitation, 22 of an inch, occurred on the 13th.

There were 25 clear days during the month, two partly cloudy and four cloudy. Dust storms occurred on the 10th and thunder showers on the 22nd. The prevailing winds were from the south and west.

The greatest extremes of heat and cold for the month occurred within the same week. Thursday, May 31, the mercury hit the monthly high at 103. On the 25th, one week ago Friday, it hit a low of 30 degrees, and a high first occurred on that date.

The mean maximum temperature for the month was 83.14 and the mean minimum 55.58. The mean temperature was 68.86. The greatest range in temperature for any one day was 50 degrees on May 20th.

FUNERAL OF LAURA LONERGAN IS HELD

Describes Trip to Northwest in 1894

Howard Russell gave a beautiful word picture of a trip taken thru the northwest with a party of friends, in July, 1894, to members of the Jacksonville Rotary club Friday.

Mr. Russell was introduced by Harry M. Capps, chairman of the program committee.

Mr. Russell in company with William Brown, John I. Chambers, Dr. L. A. Frost and C. C. Henry, left Chicago, July 25, 1894, for Montana on a fishing and hunting trip. The party traveled in a special car furnished by the Chicago & Alton railroad. Mr. Brown, who was general solicitor for the railroad having just won an important law suit for the company.

The special car was routed over the Great Northern railroad, with Joseph Raymond, of this city as cook.

Mr. Russell told of traveling over the practically uninhabited country toward Montana. The Great Northern railroad has just been completed thru the wild country. The speaker said that the country was dotted with buffalo wallows.

When the party arrived at Belton, Montana, Mr. Russell said that the general manager of the Great Northern railroad came into the private car and informed Mr. Brown that a special telegraph operator had been assigned to him, but Brown replied: "I came west to get away from telegraph operators and I don't want to see one until I return home."

Upon arriving at Belton, the party loaded their baggage and equipment into boats and went down the Flat Head river to Lake MacDonald where camp was pitched.

Mr. Russell said that trout was abundant in the lake and were very large. The speaker told of a trip taken with a guide up Mount Brown, named in honor of the Jacksonville attorney. While on this trip, Mr. Russell killed a mountain goat.

Mr. Russell is the only survivor of the party that made the trip to the northwest about 40 years ago. One of the party died suddenly on the return journey.

Guests of the club Friday were Dr. H. L. New and Dr. Paul B. Hartley.

WILL ROGERS
says:

To the Editor of The Journal-Courier:

Beverly Hills, Calif., June 1.—Our governor, "Jimmy" Rolph, is very, very ill. Writers who rose in such glee to denounce him for doing nothing but speaking from his heart, and not from political tact, they broke his heart; now let them, before commenting further, speak of some of the fine human qualities he possessed. Few men ever in public life will leave more real friends. Our country's structure is built on "let the law take its course," but there has been more the matter with our laws, our courts, and our justice, than there was with Jimmy Rolph. Editorial writers were against you Jimmy (for they have to write for their public) but gosh, it must do your old heart good to know how many mothers were for you. Yours, WILL.

District Gathering of Pythian Sisters

Roodhouse, June 1.—The annual convention of the 11th district Pythian Sisters was held in K. of P. hall, Roodhouse, on Tuesday afternoon and evening this week. Mrs. Nora Gibbins of Roodhouse, district deputy, was in charge.

Including visitors from other Temples, about one hundred and fifty attended. Six o'clock dinner was served to seventy-five members by the Virginia Walker class of the Baptist church. All of the ten Temples in the district were represented at one or more of the sessions, besides visitors from Rantoul, Belleville, Champaign, Aton and East St. Louis, outside the district.

The afternoon session was largely devoted to a school of instruction conducted by Mrs. Ruth Gundlach of Chicago, state Grand Chief. Preceding this, however, a special program was given including a welcome address by Mrs. Mattie Bundy and response by Mrs. Gundlach; duet by Claire Gene Whitney and William Forrester; and reading by Mrs. Leah Whitney.

Convening for the evening session, Rev. Milton Wilson gave a short talk, followed by song and dance numbers by Jack and Joan Forrester and Shirley Gay Plahn; vocal solos by Edith Anderson of Roodhouse and Mrs. Virginia McIndoe of Jacksonville, and accordion solo by Mrs. Axe of Jacksonville.

The initiatory work of the Order was then exemplified by the degree staff of Roodhouse Temple, eliciting much praise from Grand officers present who were pleased to compliment Roodhouse Temple as one of the strongest and most active in the state, praising also the entire district and its capable deputy, Mrs. Gibbins.

State officers present were: Ruth Gundlach, Chicago, Grand Chief; Gertrude Prather, Rantoul, Grand Senior; Cora Weeks and Mrs. Lee, both of Champaign; Past Grand Chiefs: Irma and Agnes Robbins of East St. Louis, also Past Grand Chiefs, and Sophia Marsh of Springfield, Past Grand Chief.

Mrs. Al Douglas of Springfield, wife of the Grand Keeper of Records and Seals of the Knights of Pythias, was also present.

Murrayville Youth Dies in Canal Zone in Airplane Mishap

Ralph H. Lawson, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lawson of Murrayville, was killed Thursday in the Panama Canal zone, where he was serving as a private in the United States army and was stationed at France field. Lawson was riding as a passenger in an army plane piloted by Lieut. Cornelius Cousland, which was flying over Gatun Lake when the right-hand motor started to break up.

A piece of metal hurled from the motor struck Lawson. The pilot landed the amphibian plane on the lake, but the message received by the Associated Press seems to indicate that Lawson was knocked from the plane and that his body fell into the lake. The message says searching parties are seeking the body.

Lawson enlisted in the army Jan. 2, 1932, and his term would have expired next January. He was born at Murrayville, Oct. 24, 1910. He is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters. Mr. and Mrs. Lawson received a message Friday morning informing them of their son's death.

The body is to be returned to Murrayville for burial. Further announcement will be made when more details are known.

FIRST SUNDAY NIGHT UNION SERVICES ON GRACE CHURCH LAMP

The first of this summer's series of Union Sunday evening services will be held on Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m. on the lawn at Grace Methodist church. Dr. F. B. Oxtoby, professor of Biblical Literature and Philosophy at Illinois College, will be the preacher. His subject is "The Holy Land." Mrs. Helen Brown Read will sing.

All of the Protestant churches of the city are joining together for these services during the summer months. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Sheehan of Woodson were among the Friday shoppers in the city.

France Asks Action to Continue Parley

Geneva, June 1.—(AP)—As the world disarmament conference gasped on what appeared to be its deathbed today, a French spokesman expressed confidence "something will be done."

"In all events," he told the Associated Press, "France does not intend to permit anybody to throw the responsibility for the collapse on her shoulders."

France, he insisted, wants to go on with the conference.

But, so serious was the situation that Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, president, had hard work finding speakers for the session this afternoon.

Although smaller powers were prepared for positive action the opinion prevailed that unless Britain and France reached a basis of common negotiation efforts of the other countries would be fruitless.

British circles expressed belief that France did not want a disarmament convention.

This view followed the heated speech of Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, in which he rapped London's plan for disarmament, providing for a partial re-arming of Germany. Barthou also assailed Germany, charging her with violating the treaty of Versailles by re-arming.

MAY WEATHER BREAKS NUMEROUS OLD MARKS

Chicago, June 1.—(AP)—May, which went out like a blast from a furnace, left many shattered weather records in its wake.

In most sections of the midwest, it was the hottest and driest May on record. In Chicago, which was comparatively cool throughout the month, 237 degrees of excess heat were piled up.

Yesterday's scorching, and the weatherman said today would be as hot, was unprecedented for any month in several communities.

Inwood, Ia., topped the midwest with a 111 reading; Aberdeen, S. D., 110; Eau Claire, Wis., 107; Rockford, 106; Minneapolis, 106.3; Ottawa, Aurora, and Peoria, 104.

In downstate Illinois, no relief was promised before tomorrow. Chicago awaited the possibility of showers tonight to break its heat wave.

But in Duluth, Minn., it was so cool yesterday, furnace fire were lighted. The day's minimum was 48 degrees and the highest 67.

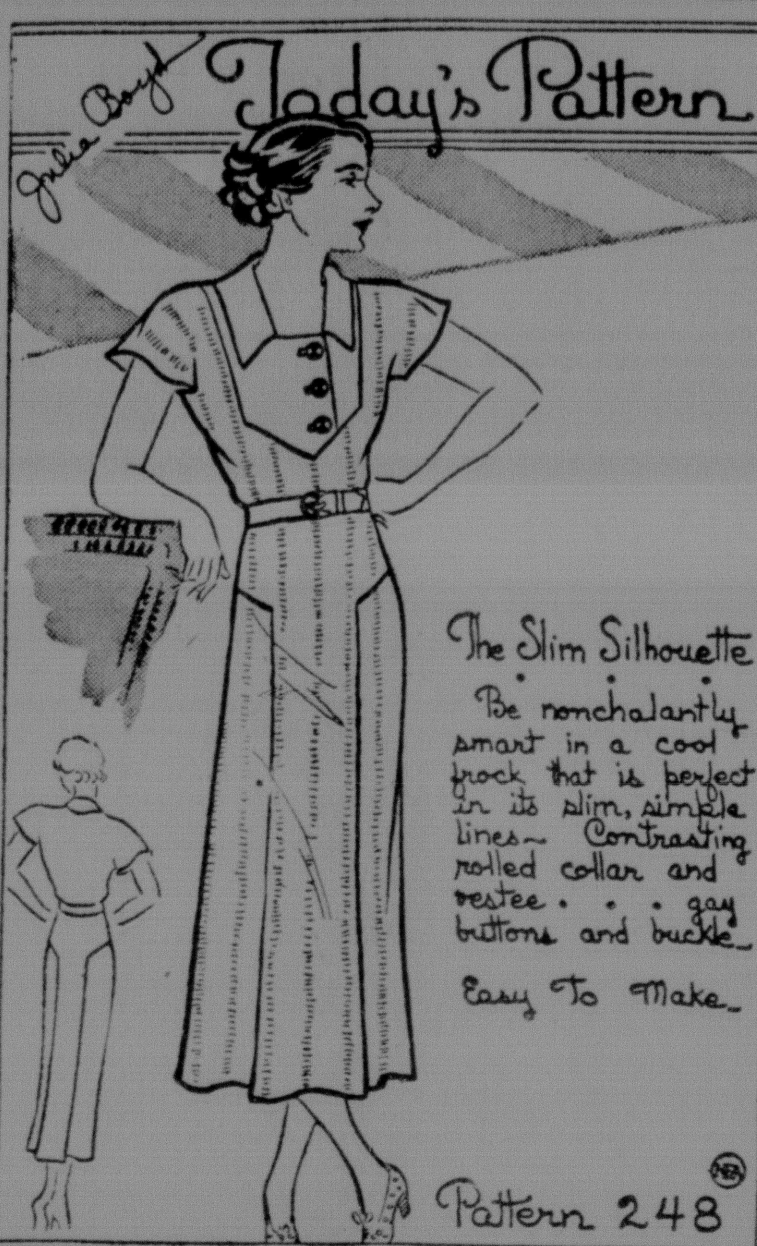

GETTLE KIDNAPERS TO BE FORBIDDEN PAROLE

Los Angeles, June 1.—(AP)—The kidnapers of William F. Gettle, Beverly Hills oil millionaire, today were given sentences which will keep them in prison as long as they live with no hope of pardon or parole.

Already sentenced to life terms under their pleas of guilty to abducting Gettle, James F. Kirk, Larry Kerrigan and Roy A. Williams were convicted for extortion and were sentenced to imprisonment of 37 years each.

California law forbids any leniency to a convict who is under sentence for another felony.

Nevada has the greatest area of unsurveyed public land of any state in the Union.

Miss Armesa Wood, with Mrs. Gail Miller as accompanist, sang two songs, "Jewels" and "Asleep in Jesus."

Those caring for the flowers were Mrs. Ernest Murphy and the Misses Palma and Marietta Whitehouse and Virginia Whipple. The casket bearers were Robert Roach, Carlton Allen, John McBride, John Curtis, John Casey and Roy Treadway.

LABOR CONTROVERSY AT PEKIN SETTLED; PLANT IS RE-OPENED

Pekin, Ill., June 1.—(AP)—Labor troubles which led to a lockout at the American Commercial Alcohol Distillery were settled early today. Operations will be resumed immediately on an open shop basis.

A fifteen hour conference presided over by Richard Fox, United States Department of Labor conciliator, ended when company officials gave official recognition to the workers' distillery union in a 13-months agreement. Union workers charged discrimination had been shown against them in favor of non-union labor from the east.

A crowd of 1,000 pickets surrounded the plant for four days, refusing to allow anyone to pass through their lines.

Johnson Says Mills Talks for Wreckers

Washington, June 1.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson says Ogden Mills is the "mouth piece of a crew of nation wreckers."

Attacking Mills last night for saying that NRA was trying to regiment industry, Johnson answered that every code in existence was proposed by industry itself.

In a speech to the National Catholic Alumni Federation and a radio audience, he said of Mills:

"He was the mouthpiece of a crew that didn't reorganize or reconstruct or regiment American industry—all they did to it was ruin it."

"They deserve credit for supreme accomplishment. No such wreckage was ever accomplished since Rome levelled the walls of Carthage and strewn the wreck with salt—and only four short years ago, on their theory of doing nothing about it, 14,000,000 people went out of employment, tens of thousands of small enterprises dried up, and the worst season that ever visited these shores came upon us."

RAIN AT PANAMA

Pana. Ill., June 1.—(AP)—The first rain in six weeks fell here today, the half inch of precipitation being accompanied by a rapid drop of 20 degrees in a temperature which reached 106 degrees before falling.

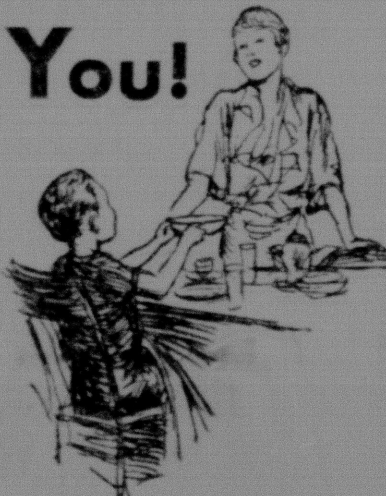

Among the Chapin shoppers in Jacksonville Friday included Mrs. Grover Smith.

Boston Braves Take 16-Inning Battle From Dodgers 8 to 7; Whitney, Urbanki Hit Homers

Boston, June 1.—(P)—The Braves and the Brooklyn Dodgers played the second longest and probably the oddest ball game of the major league season today with Boston coming out ahead, 8 to 7, in the 16th inning. The only longer contest this year was a 17-inning affair played by Washington and the St. Louis Browns.

The finish came after Hal Lee singled off Art Herring, took second when Dan Taylor caught Wally Berger's long fly and Randy Moore was purposely passed. Marty McManus then shot a single through Al Lopez at third to bring home the winning run.

The Dodgers scored five runs in the first, driving Jim Elliott to cover. The Braves, in turn, knocked Les Munns in the first but tallied only once. They made up for that by slamming Owen Carroll and Herring for six runs in the eighth, five scoring on homers by Pinky Whitney and Bill Urbanki. The Dodgers tied the count again in the ninth.

TIGERS WAYLAY WHITE SOX 3 TO 1

Chicago, June 1.—(P)—Aided by Goose Goslin's homer and some productive hitting by Billy Rogell, Schoolboy Rowe shaded Ted Lyons in a pitchers duel today and Detroit took the series opener from the White Sox 3 to 1. Rowe had a shut-out spoiled only by Al Simmons' seventh home run in the ninth inning.

One of the Tigers' runs was unearned, Rogell scoring from third in the ninth after he and White had singled and Shortstop Luke Appling threw wild to the plate as Rogell broke for home when White was trapped trying to stretch his hit.

Goslin's homer in the third and Rogell's double, a sacrifice and a fly in the fourth accounted for the other Detroit runs.

Gabby Harnett Cracks Out Homer With Pal on Bases And Cubs Beat Reds 3 to 1

Cincinnati, June 1.—(P)—Smashing the ball high and far out of the field for a home run, Gabby Harnett gave the Chicago Cubs a 3 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds today.

His smash, off Bennie Frey, sailed ten feet above the clock on the far outfield fence, traveling fully 425 feet. Oldtimers called it the longest drive seen here. Driving in Jurgas who had doubled, it put the Cubs in the lead, and Klein's double, permitting him to score on a fly, was merely trimming.

The Reds had held a 1-0 advantage until Harnett's blast in the eighth.

PIRATES RALLY TO BEAT CARDS 4 TO 3

Pittsburgh, June 1.—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates rallied brilliantly in the ninth inning today, putting on a three-run drive to win from the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 3, and simultaneously snapped a losing streak that reached five straight games.

"Wild" Bill Hallahan left-handed his way through eight innings in magnificent fashion, holding the Pirates to one run and four hits, but he blew up in the last of the ninth. Arks Vaughan opened the rally with a single and Gus Suhr followed with a double. Harry Lavagetto, the Coast Leaguer recruit who is making good his first year up, lashed out a single that scored both runners and tied the score at 3 all.

Lavagetto went all the way to third when Outfielder Medwick fumbled the ball. Wally Roettger and Tommy Padden drew intentional passes. Pete Vaughn batted for Waite Hoyt, who had relieved Ralph Birkhofer of the Pirates' pitching duties, and fanned. But Lavagetto came home with the game-winning run a moment later on Lloyd Waner's infield hit.

Gloves Fly in Excellent Eight Bout Program; Robinson and Barber Win in Slug-Fests

Jacksonville's amateur boxing team turned back Quincy's Golden Gloves last night in an excellent eight bout program fought under almost perfect conditions in the Greek theater here before about 1,500 people, the Jacksonville team, composed of winners in the Springfield Golden Gloves tournament, coping six of the seven inter-city bouts. There wasn't a set-up on the program, the crowd roaring in the final round of almost every bout as the battlers tried to sew up or change decisions.

Picking out a feature bout would be difficult, for every one of the matches was packed with slugging, boxing, and cunning. Clarence Robinson and Willie Barber, the latter a Golden Gloves winner at Springfield, turned in excellent performances.

Robinson showing a greatly developed sting, while Barber looked like a greatly improved fighting machine. Abe Feduris, the only other entry in the bouts who actually lives in Jacksonville, met Max Rikaczewski, winner of the Journal-Courier's heavyweight title a little over a year ago, and the Springfield lad simply kept out of Big Abe's path while stinging him with taps to the neck to win the decision in a battle that saw gloves landing the hardest of the evening.

RED SOX SMOTHER SENATORS 13 TO 1

Washington, June 1.—(P)—Twenty hits of Al Crowder, Jack Russell and the veteran Alex McColl gave the Boston Red Sox a 13 to 1 victory over the Senators today in the opener of their four-game series.

Crowder, whose victories were big factors in Washington's recent success on the road, lasted just two-thirds of an inning. The first-inning shower of doubles and singles continued as Russell went to his aid. McColl finally retired the side by catching a runner off base after the Red Sox had batted almost twice around, made nine hits and as many runs.

GIANTS DEFEAT PHILLIES 4 TO 3

New York, June 1.—(P)—George Darrow's pitching and Irvine Jeffries' hitting almost beat the Giants today but the world champions finally came through in the ninth inning to defeat the Phillies, 4 to 3. The victory enabled the Giants to maintain their second place tie with Chicago and reduce the St. Louis lead to a half game.

Darrow outlasted Carl Hubbell in a southpaw battle but Philly errors got him in trouble in the seventh and again in the ninth. Finally after two singles, an error and an intentional pass loaded the sacks in the ninth Bill Terry drove in the winning run with a one bagger. Jeffries knocked in all three Philadelphia runs with a double and a homer.

Cuban Army is Held Ready as Outbreaks Show No Abatement

Havana, June 1.—(P)—The Cuban government held its army in readiness today to combat further disorders as a series of anti-American outbreaks showed no sign of abatement.

Grave concern was felt by authorities, their responsibility increased when President Roosevelt signed the treaty dismissing the United States' thirty-three-year-old privilege to intervene—the Platt amendment.

Col. Fulgencio Batista, commander-in-chief of the army, ordered all soldiers at the Matanzas garrison to be held in barracks, similar instructions were given the Havana police force.

Attached to rocks, notes reading "Down with Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador," were thrown through the windows of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg American steamship lines last night. They were signed "The Communist party of Cuba."

This incident followed on the heels of an apparently incendiary fire which destroyed a large paper mill, owned partly by Americans and insured by an American company. Owners said the loss would not exceed $600,000. An attack was made on Caffery's life Sunday, the second, he said, within three weeks.

The acts of terrorism were blamed by Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, former president who returned recently from Mexico, upon "my enemies who are trying to make people believe I am responsible."

Police late last night found an unexploded bomb in front of the mid-town branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Y. M. C. A. BASEBALL GAMES PLANNED FOR EVENINGS NEXT WEEK

At a meeting of the Y.M.C.A. hard baseball team managers held Thursday night, it was decided to play games at the high school athletic field Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening next week. The schedule includes:

Tuesday—Ideal Baking Company vs. American Legion Juniors.

Wednesday—Morgan Detry vs. New Method.

Thursday—Lynnville vs. Brennan Service.

All teams in the league are being asked to pay $1 each to provide a backdrop on the diamond. Each team will furnish an umpire, so that enough umpires can be provided to have two at each game.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock managers of the teams in the soft ball league will meet at Congregational church to discuss their schedule. There are still places open in both leagues, and any team wishing to enter should notify A. D. Herman, secretary.

Dance to Louis Norvell and his orchestra at Woodland Inn tonight. Serving at 5:30.

Eddie Shea had a rather easy time marking up a win over Willie Ross, Quincy lad, who fought neatly, but who couldn't match Shea's tearing left hand. Ross covered up his head several times and let Shea pound away. Al Cole, Springfield, defeated Frank Cooley by another close decision. Cole loafing through the first round to come back with a terrific third round finish that left Cooley groggy. Cole took a lot of punishment to land his blows, but when they landed, they dropped solidly. Cole won the second and third rounds after missing a chance in the second to put Cooley away.

In the opening bout, Joe Mendota, of Springfield, defeated Kenneth Bell, Quincy, in a close fight, the fight beginning slowly and working itself up to a rousing finish with both boys slugging at each other. Bell suffered a cut eye in the final round, bleeding down his face and spreading over his sweat covered body as the gloves lashed around.

Raymond Carlyle, of Beardstown, was the third man in the ring. He and Raymond Nussipickel, Illinois College coach, and Frank Walker, High school coach, were the judges. Pendergast and Carr were the timers, and Freddie Lynn the announcer. Dr. J. U. Day was the examining physician.

Attorneys Have Crime Code Planned for State Adoption

Waukegan, Ill., June 1.—(P)—A model criminal code, designed to speed up trials and assure proper punishment for offenders, was prepared for presentation today to the Illinois State Bar Association convention.

Association members, if the code meets with their approval, will sponsor its adoption at the next session of the legislature in January.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, author of the plan, said it aims "to try the man rather than the crime." The code provides for a less rigorous punishment of first offenders found guilty of less serious crimes, but is stern against repeated offenders. It makes possible life imprisonment for an offender found guilty for the third time of crimes listed as misdemeanors: Treason, murder, rape, kidnapping, bombing, armed robbery and attempts to commit such crimes are, under the code, punishable by death or life imprisonment, the latter subject to the benefit of parole at the end of one year, but not probation.

Prison Punishments

Included in the class punishable by imprisonment in a penitentiary for a term of not more than fifteen years and subject to probation and parole are: carrying concealed weapons, auto theft, jail escape, bribery, perjury, subornation of perjury, forgery and counterfeiting, robbery, larceny above $1,000, embezzlement, obtaining money under false pretenses, and false statements, and fraudulent conversion by bank officials.

Those punishable by imprisonment in any institution other than a penitentiary for a period not to exceed three years are: abandonment and abduction of children, abortion, receiving deposits while insolvent, unlawful loans to bank officers, bigamy, unlawful manufacture of explosives, frauds, and larceny under $1,000.

Those punishable by the same imprisonment as in the previous class but without increase of punishment upon second conviction are: accessoryship after the fact, living in adultery, contributing to the delinquency of children, gaming offenses, libel and radio slander, mob violence in more serious forms, assault and compound in crime.

ITINERANT KILLED

South Bend, Ind., June 1.—(P)—A man about 60 years old, identified by his effects as S. R. Emmett, itinerant printer of Golconda, Ill., was killed here today by a taxicab. A card in his pocket asked that Mrs. Anna Emmett, Golconda, be notified.

Maxie Beats Abe.

Leather landed solidly in the final bout when Abe Feduris and Maxie battled it out, but the Springfield lad showed his superior ring experience in turning back the college battler. Feduris took everything Max had to offer, and handed it back neatly. In spite of his size, Feduris leaped around the ring as sure footed as his lighter but more elusive opponent. Rikaczewski piled up his point margin in the first two rounds when he flitted around Big Abe, shooting in left jabs. Feduris bided his time until the final round, and then turned loose with several rushes that had the Springfield boy hunting cover.

Tom Sutherland, Springfield fighter, was awarded an unpopular decision over Con Koyer, Quincy battler, in the semi-windup, two of the judges favoring Sutherland by one point margins, while the other judge scored Koyer with a two point margin over Sutherland. Sutherland, who had the reach, did not appear to be as polished a boxer as the Quincy lad, but Sutherland landed his blows more surely than did the Quincy lad, who had to fire his blows at a weaving target. Sutherland didn't get under full steam until the final round when his peculiar weaving and bobbing left the Quincy fighter, tired from two rounds of trying to get through Sutherland's defense for a solid blow, shooting at a target that was in one place one moment and some place else the next.

George Davin, Quincy welterweight, won the only decision for the visiting team when he polished off Garland Parnell, Springfield welter champion, in another close fight. Parnell was outclassed during the first two rounds, but came back in the third to put on a brilliant finish.

Former Carrollton Man Dies in West

Carrollton, June 1.—Word has been received of the death of James McMahon, a native of Carrollton which occurred at his home in Glen Rock, Wyoming Monday evening, May 28th. Funeral arrangements were not learned but burial will probably take place in Glen Rock.

The deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael McMahon, prominent residents of Green county, and was born in Carrollton. At the time of his death he was aged about seventy years. After leaving Greene county, Mr. McMahon engaged in farming in Jersey county for a number of years, and later moved to Wyoming.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine McMahon, five children: one sister, Mrs. J. J. McGuire, Sr. of Jerseyville; three brothers, William McMahon of Jerseyville, Simon of Glen Rock, and Michael of Los Angeles, California.

Inspects Wheat Fields
Farm Adviser R. H. Clanchan spent some time last week in inspecting wheat fields in different parts of the county for chinch bugs. He states that the situation here is not as serious as it is in other parts of the state. Farmers report that the wheat is drying up on account of the long drought.

Rev. M. J. Johnson, Rev. Marion Rowlen and Rev. W. D. Thomas were entertained at dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leven Dowdall. Harold Hillig of the C. C. C., stationed at Springfield, spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Etta Hillig. Leo Hooper of Grafton, sent Tuesday here on business.

Miss Helen Baxley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baxley of Jacksonville, formerly of this city, and George P. Stine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Stine of Carrollton, were married Thursday by Judge Gilbert K. Hutchens at the Hutchens home. The couple will make their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Linn and daughters, Janet and Dorothy, returned to their home in Chicago, Sunday after spending two weeks with their fathers, Fritz Linn of this city, and C. T. Bates of Roodhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Garner of St. Louis came here Tuesday to spend Memorial Day. Mrs. Garner is a former resident of Carrollton and a daughter of the late John Carmody, a veteran of the Civil war, and in forty years she was always one of the young ladies in charge of decorating the graves of our soldier dead here, and she tries every year to be at memorial services here, where her loved ones all rest.

C. Williams of Pittsfield, George H. Varble of Kane, Kenneth Brannon and Dewey Curry of Eldred; Mr. and Mrs. T. Arnold of Kane and T. L. Cameron of Medora were among the out of town persons attending the weekly sales Tuesday of the Carrollton Sales company.

Mrs. Fritz 84 Years Old
Mrs. Catherine Fritz celebrated her 84th birthday anniversary here Wednesday. She is very active for one that age and is still able to do all her house work for her husband and self. Louis Fritz, her husband is about a year younger and is also very hale. Several friends called on the couple, to extend congratulations.

James Isaacs, 94 years, of near Delhi came to Carrollton Tuesday via bus unaccompanied to visit his son, Andrew Isaacs. Mr. Isaacs is a Civil war veteran and remembers things well that happened five years or more before that war commenced.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Howard attended the funeral of Mr. Howard's aunt, Mrs. Douglas Rutherford at White Hall, Tuesday.

Memorial Program
Memorial day was celebrated here Wednesday, by Carrollton Post No. 114 American Legion at Carrollton city cemetery and St. John's Catholic cemetery. Flags were placed on and the graves of the country's defenders were decorated at 9 a. m. After which prayer for the departed was offered at both cemeteries by American Legion Post 114 Chaplain A. Williams. The flag squad fired a salute and taps were sounded. After the flags were placed both cemeteries were liberally sprinkled with the "Stars and Stripes" as the two Carrollton cemeteries are the last resting place of quite a number of members of our defenders who have passed on to their reward by the "Great Commander." The Piney Woods Collegians gave a choral entertainment at 10:30 a. m., at Court House park, and a baseball game was played at 2 p. m., between them and the Carrollton Merchants nine.

COMMUNICATIONS

Gentlemen of Illinois:

Realizing the disadvantage you may have suffered on account of unreliable servants and yet you are willing to give us your work, we feel that we owe you much and hereby offer many thanks for the same.

You have led the way to prosperity and success and we desire to follow. I have opened for the purpose of helping you and also my people, an industrial department giving each employee such industrial training that will make them a good servant.

Try me for one year and note the improvement. We do cooking, caldroning, housecleaning, washing and ironing, draying, massaging, dress-making and painting. Phone 744Z.

C. L. Montgomery, Sec.
Federated Council of the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Intense Heat Fatal to Carrollton Man

Carrollton, June 1.—William Butcher, 69, a carpenter, died suddenly at 11:15 o'clock last night at his home in the northeast part of town. The cause of death was acute dilation of the heart, induced by the intense heat. Mr. Butcher was able to work yesterday, and his death was quite unexpected.

He was born at Maynardville, Union county, Tenn., and came to Carrollton when 20 years of age. He was married by the Rev. W. H. Jordan at Jerseyville Sept. 26, 1907, to Miss Ruth Derr, who survives him. Altho the couple had no children of their own, they have reared several and have in their home at present a grand niece, Ada Ruth Butcher. Mr. Butcher was a lover of nature and flowers. He was a highly respected citizen of this community.

Funeral services will be held from the residence at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in charge of Rev. E. P. Leick.

Naturalization fees in this country have increased about 50% since 1929.

A group of additional new models for the 1934 Chevrolet line — four full-size cars — 100% Chevrolet in quality and reliability

Right at the peak of Chevrolet popularity—with nationwide demand sending production to new all-time "highs"—Chevrolet dealers are displaying an additional group of four new models. These cars are identical in quality with all 1934 Chevrolets. And the prices have been set at such incredibly low figures that you can now buy a Chevrolet for $490! "A Chevrolet for $490!" That's the world's lowest price for a six-cylinder car. The lowest price, also, for a car of this size, wheelbase and power! And a figure that sounds even more impressive after you find out what it buys: A great big, full-size, long-wheelbase car, 169 inches from bumper to bumper. A cushion-balanced SIX of surprising smoothness, power, snap and dash. The most economical full-size car that money can buy—a record-breaker for gas and oil mileage, as well as long, dependable service. And every closed model has a Body by Fisher. Nobody interested in motor cars can afford to let another day slip by, without seeing this "Chevrolet for $490."

PRESSLIVESTOCK PRICES
REMAIN STEADY

Chicago, June 1.—(P)—Livestock markets held up well today under the burden of receipts of animals rushed to market from drought-stricken farmlands where feed is scarce. Prices held steady for hogs and cattle and dipped in the sheep alleys.

Hog receipts totaled 20,000 head, of which 8,000 were shipped direct to packers. This was more than had been expected and more than was received a year ago but less than the run of a week ago.

Prices for medium weight swine held steady, the top at $3.75, but lighter and heavier weights averaged $3.50 downward. The fact that receipts were moderate considering drought conditions was fortunate inasmuch as there was a carry-over of 3,000 which had not been sold from the day before. The federal surplus relief corporation today advertised bids for purchase and processing of hogs into smoked pork for distribution to the poor. The bids will be opened here June 11.

Cattle, although going slow, held steady. Heavy steers were unevenly higher in some instances but there was little beef in the day's run of 2,500 head. The best paid for four loads of 1,255 pound Nebraska steers was $2.40. Receipts were around 10,000.

Sheep marketings again were forwarded largely to slaughter plants and the open market languished. Prices were 25 cents lower on all lamb classes. Aged sheep were steady earlier. The run of 6,000 was lighter than usual.

FLOUR PRICES

Minneapolis, June 1.—(P)—Flour 25 higher. Carload lots, family patents 7.65-7.85 a barrel in 98 pound cotton sacks.

WHEAT PRICES
FALL 6 CENTS

By John P. Boughan,
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, June 1.—(P)—Abrupt veering of speculative sentiment late today plunged wheat prices wildly downward 6 cents a bushel from earlier top figures.

Word that it was raining at several points in southern Saskatchewan, together with reports of showers in spring wheat states northwest, served as a signal of possibility that ending of the United States' unprecedented drought and abnormal heat was at last in sight. The result was a stampede to grab profits while the grabbing was good, and this ran the markets suddenly into stop-loss selling orders of unusual magnitude.

In the late sensational fall of prices, wheat went to 11 cents below yesterday's finish, more than offsetting 41 cents overnight advance, that had smashed season top price records in every kind of grain, and had outdone all recent exhibitions of hectic buying.

With something of a rally in progress, however, during the final dealings, wheat closed irregularly 4 lower to 4 higher compared with 24 hours previous, corn 14-21 down, oats 4-1 advanced, and provisions at a rise of 7 to 10 cents.

A contributing reason for the late right-about-face action of the wheat market, changing from extraordinary strength to comparative weakness, was that unofficial monthly crop reports issued today had been largely discounted beforehand, at least for the time being. These reports were construed as bullish in the extreme, as they not only allow for major crop damage done since May 25 by combined drought and hail. An average of today's private estimates nevertheless indicated 1934 domestic winter and spring wheat production would total but 547,000,000 bushels, the smallest total with one exception in thirty years, whereas forecasts of 550,000,000 or more had generally been expected up to the moment the reports were given out.

One of the reports indicated 108,000,000 bushels loss of winter wheat in 30 days a record in American agriculture. Spring wheat, it was asserted, was already a failure over large areas, and the condition of the spring wheat crop as a whole was figured as 12 points under 1930, the previous low record. It was emphasized the prospective total 1934 United States wheat crop would be less than either a 5-year or 10-year average production, and that apparently the coming year would greatly reduce or altogether absorb the nation's theoretical surplus of wheat.

Friends of higher prices contended tonight that it must not be supposed scattering measure in parts of the northwest could correct a crop situation that had taken months to bring about. It was added that the market was still a weather affair, and that if tomorrow nothing but light rains were shown a resumption of upward trends of wheat prices could be expected.

Corn and oats prices were mainly governed by the action of wheat. The country sold corn freely on advances. Oats crop estimates suggested the smallest yield since 1907, barring only 1933.

Broad general demand for hard gave firmness to provisions.

STOCK VALUES
HIT NEW LOW

By Frederick Gardner
Associated Press Financial Writer

New York, June 1.—(P)—Liquidation in stocks broadened somewhat today, carrying prices on the average to a new low for the year by a small margin.

Losses of 1 to 4 points were chalked up at the finish against such issues as U. S. Steel preferred and common, Bethlehem Steel, American Can, General Motors, Chrysler, International Business Machines, American Locomotive, American Telephone and Telegraph, J. I. Case, Commercial Solvents, Corn Products, Du Pont, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Sears Roebuck.

Volume on the stock exchange, swelled by a late selling flurry, expanded to 626,789 shares compared with 438,400 in the preceding session. The average price of 90 stocks closed 19 points lower at 74.4 compared with 74.8 on May 12, the previous closing low this year.

Rail shares yielded with the general list, despite a further better-than-seasonal increase of 14.34 cents in freight loadings last week, the total at 624.567 was near the March top.

U. S. Steel preferred was an outstanding weak spot. It dipped 4 points to 80, a new 1934 low.

Motor and other industrial groups facing seasonal curtailment in operations were in the forefront of the decline.

Weekly trade summaries reported tension in business had increased, although they predicted the main recovery movement would be resumed by autumn and noted improvement in consumer demand for goods the past week.

Alleged Confessions Admitted in Trial of L. P. Hauck Friday

During the meeting in the jury room, the city attorney said Mr. Diehl asked Hauck if the card records showed the amount of money received on special assessment accounts. Hauck said that the cards were correct and that each payment was marked on the card.

At the subsequent meeting in the city attorney's office, Hauck admitted taking the money, the city attorney said, and that Hauck had used the money for speculation.

During the cross examination, the city attorney said he first wrote Hauck a letter informing him of the shortage. In January of this year, but that Hauck and himself were unable to make arrangements for a conference at that time. Later he telephoned Hauck, Chenoweth and former City Treasurer H. C. Clement and arranged the conference which took place in the jury room at the court house. Hauck was not represented by an attorney at that meeting, and was not advised of his constitutional rights, as far as the city attorney knew.

The present city treasurer, Carl P. Hamilton, was recalled to the stand to testify that he had received a sum of money and bonds from Samuel and Chenoweth.

Calling Orville Diehl of the firm of Gaugher & Diehl, certified public accountants, to the stand yesterday morning the prosecution laid a ground work for its charges through his testimony. Diehl whose business address is Decatur, declared that an exhaustive audit of the city treasurer's records showed that there were discrepancies between the card system used in the treasurer's office and the report submitted to the city council for the month of March, 1931.

Referring to a sheet of audit records, Diehl told the jury his audit shows that $4,866 appears to have been collected on South Side sewer assessments in March, 1931, and that $1,975.79 is the sum given in the report to the city clerk and council. The auditor testified the difference in these figures is $2,894.81.

While the prosecution early yesterday morning began a line of evidence to prove Hauck guilty of larceny and embezzlement of the difference in money represented in the two reports the defense was busy attempting to show that a deposit made on the last day of March, or the first day of April, 1931, has important bearing on the case. The defense will endeavor to combat the state's charges with testimony relative to this particular spot in the record.

During the cross examination Diehl said the audit shows such a deposit of $2,891.58, to the credit of the city, made on March 31 or April 1, 1931. The difference between the amount alleged to have disappeared and the amount of this particular deposit is $338, the auditor testified.

"What effect would a deposit of this amount on March 31 or April 1, 1931, have on the discrepancy as shown in your audit?" State's Attorney Absher asked Diehl.

"Deposit Has No Bearing" "I think it would have no bearing," the auditor replied.

Diehl was on the witness stand for more than an hour during the morning, relating in detail the work of his firm in checking and analyzing the city treasurer's records. He was the principal witness for the state, but there were a number of others who added weight to the state's contention that Hauck was in charge of the special assessment collections at that time, and that a shortage existed.

figures prominently in the evidence against Hauck. Asked by the state's attorney as to when he first talked with Hauck about the special assessment accounts, Chenoweth said it was in the first part of February this year. At this point in the trial Attorney Free objected to Chenoweth's testimony on grounds that the corpus delicti had not been established. After a brief conference between Judge Hemphill and attorneys, Chenoweth was withdrawn from the witness stand by the state's attorney who stated that he will be re-called after other evidence is introduced.

Diehl Describes Audit Diehl then was called to the stand to begin his recital of the audit, which was instituted at the order of the present city officials, several conferences having taken place between Mayor Wainwright, City Attorney Foreman, and others.

Diehl was questioned as to his qualifications of accountant, stating that his firm specializes in municipal accounting. The firm was engaged last fall to make an audit of the Jacksonville treasurer's books over a period of from 1922 to 1932 of special assessments.

The auditor said he began with an examination of the original assessment rolls in county court, then examining the cards and cash collections. The records as shown by the card system were checked with the monthly reports filed with the clerk and council.

File cards P1 to 129 were introduced in court by the state's attorney and frequently referred to by witnesses. Diehl was asked if the cards were the same he examined during the audit. He checked over the cards with his own audit records, requiring about fifteen minutes, then replied in the affirmative.

Reports Fail to Tally State's Attorney Absher handed the auditor a report of the city treasurer to the council for March, 1931:

"Did your audit disclose the amount collected on Special Assessment 230 during March, 1931?" Absher asked the witness. Diehl replied that it did. After several objections by the defense attorney Diehl was permitted to proceed. He said $4,866 appears to have been collected on the South Side assessments during March, 1931, and that the report to the council showed $1,975.79 collected for the same period. Later during the examination Diehl testified that no place during the audit this alleged difference was discovered.

Attorney Free asked the witness if his audit showed that a deposit of $2,891.58 was made on either March 31 or April 1, 1931, to which Diehl said yes.

Diehl was further questioned by the state's attorney. He said he did not think such a deposit would have any bearing on the "shortage."

The defense attorney protested the use of this word "shortage" on several occasions, his objections being sustained.

Bookkeeper Testifies Mrs. Cella Brown, who was a bookkeeper at the Ayers National bank for a number of years was the next witness. She said she assisted Hauck occasionally in handling the special assessment accounts. The cards, she testified, were laid aside when property owners paid installments and were balanced later in the day. Mrs. Brown was not cross examined.

H. C. Clement, a former city treasurer, was asked about the card system and testified that he succeeded Chenoweth as city treasurer on May 1, 1931.

Fred Still, who took over Hauck's work of handling the assessment collection in June, 1932, said he helped Hauck in May but not in March of 1931.

The next witness was Robert W. Albright, assistant to Nelson H. Greene, the Ayers bank receiver. He said that the receiver took charge of all city treasury records the day after the bank closed in November, 1932. The books were delivered to Francis R. Rantz on Dec. 1, 1932.

Paul and Leonard Hills, who for a time was in charge of special as-essment collections, were other witnesses before noon adjournment.

Orchard Damaged by Blaze: House Burns

Jerseyville, June 1.—Two fires occurred about noon in the Jerseyville vicinity Thursday. One did considerable damage in what is known as the Motaz Orchard near the eastern limits of the city and the other consumed the dwelling of Henry Feyerabend several miles southwest of Jerseyville.

The Jerseyville fire department was first called out to fight the fire in the orchard, and while so engaged the call for help came from the Feyerabend home.

The orchard fire originated in an unknown manner, and is thought to have gained its start from a discarded cigarette. The fire at the Feyerabend home was caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove.

Damage to the orchard is uncertain. The loss will consist of the fruit destroyed on the lower limbs of the trees by the fire and intense heat. A considerable space in the tract was burned over before the department arrived and checked its advance.

At the Feyerabend home, a piano and other articles of furniture were saved from the blaze, but the loss of the house and its contents was practically total. The fire department after its arrival confined the fire to the burning house. Shortage of water rendered it difficult for the department to combat the flames.

Alleged Confessions Admitted in Trial of L. P. Hauck Friday

Over the strenuous objections of defense counsel, oral confessions, alleged to have been made by L. P. Hauck, on trial on a charge of embezzling city funds, were admitted into evidence yesterday afternoon. The confessions were related by Judge H. P. Samuel, attorney for H. K. Chenoweth, former city treasurer, by Mr. Chenoweth, and by O. N. Foreman, city attorney.

Defense counsel objected to the admission of the confessions on the grounds that the state had failed to show that a crime had been committed, and that therefore there could be no confession. The objection is based on a ruling handed down by the state supreme court within the past two weeks.

A motive for the alleged confessions was introduced into the record by Judge Samuel, who told of his conversation with Hauck last February when the alleged shortages were discovered. Hauck told him at that time, Judge Samuel stated, that when he went away to war he had been promised his old position in the Ayers National bank upon his return by M. F. Dunlap, who at that time was operating the bank. Hauck returned from the war, complaining of lung trouble, and was put to work in the basement of the bank as manager of the bond department.

Hauck related at that time that he regarded his position as highly prejudicial to his health and that he decided to make some money quickly and get out of the bank. Hauck stated upon that occasion that he decided to borrow money from the city, invest it in securities and return the capital when he was able to realize a profit on his investments.

Judge Victor Hemphill released the jurors at 5:03 yesterday afternoon until 8:30 this morning when the defense will recall one of the state witnesses for further cross examination. The state declared its readiness to rest its case but when informed that the defense had obtained the right to recall a state witness, withdrew the offer to rest the case. The defense probably will call its witnesses this morning, and it is highly probable that the case will be given to the jury late this afternoon, after closing arguments by both sides.

Miss Gertrude Hamilton, assistant to Carl F. Hamilton, city treasurer, John R. Phillips, city clerk, H. K. Chenoweth, H. P. Samuel, O. N. Foreman, and Carl F. Hamilton took the witness stand during the afternoon session.

Judge Samuel Testifies

Judge Samuel gave a clear account of the means by which the alleged confessions were brought to light. He said he was called to the Ayers National bank company private office February 15, this year, by Chenoweth, and that he was taken directly to a private office in which was seated the defendant. Samuel said he asked Hauck if Hauck wanted to talk to him, and that Hauck said he did upon the condition that what was said would be kept strictly in confidence. The record was made to show that Samuel was the attorney for Chenoweth, and not employed by Hauck. Samuel said that he explained that Chenoweth was being held responsible for funds missing from the special assessment account of the city, and asked Hauck who was responsible, for the shortages. Hauck replied that he alone was responsible, and that no one else was involved. Asked why he had taken the money, Samuel said that Hauck told him the story about M. F. Dunlap's promise of Hauck's former position when he returned from the army.

Pointing out that the city was much better off because of Hauck's alleged confessions, because of the closing of the Ayers National bank, which would have tied up the amounts alleged to have been taken and a large part of which have been returned to the city, Samuel explained that he told Hauck that Chenoweth was considerably embarrassed by the reported shortage.

Before going on with his testimony, Samuel caused the jury to be taken out of the room. He explained what he was going to say next, and after the defense counsel's objections had been overruled, the jury returned. The conversation between Hauck and Samuel, turned to restitution of the funds, Samuel said, and it was learned that Hauck would be able to put back between $35,000 and $37,000. Asked if he knew how much he owed the special assessment account, Samuel said that Hauck told him he did not know. Hauck also stated that the audit was not correct, but did not specify which items were wrong.

Hauck signed an assignment amounting to about $15,000 to his credit with the James E. Bennett company over to Chenoweth and Samuel, the former judge stated, and delivered about $20,000 in bonds to Chenoweth's home that evening. Then in a four sided conversation in which Chenoweth and an auditor from St. Louis took part, Hauck again related his story about the promise of a position in the Ayers National bank and that others in the bank were being promoted faster than he was.

Consideration from the court was held out to Hauck if he made restitution of the city funds. Judge Samuel said he explained to Hauck, at the same time telling him that he did not have any official position and could not speak for officials of the court. Hauck turned over a total of approximately $44,000 to Chenoweth and Samuel, and Hauck agreed with them that the money should be deposited to Chenoweth's account against the shortages in the special assessment funds. All this time Hauck was not aware of the fate that awaited him if the case was taken before a criminal court, Samuel said.

Cross Examination

On cross examination, Samuel said that the entire deal was cleaned up in about 10 days. Samuel admitted that he told Hauck he should receive some consideration, because of the restitution of funds, but warned him several times that he was in no position to extend any consideration. Attorney Edward Pree pointed out by questioning that no one had ever told Hauck that what he said might be used against him.

Testimony of H. K. Chenoweth, former city treasurer, brought out that the first information Chenoweth had that there was a shortage in the treasurer's accounts was during the first week in February of this year. As soon as he learned of the shortage, Chenoweth said, he went to Hauck's home where he told him a conference, at which Hauck told him he couldn't understand why there should be a shortage. Chenoweth and Hauck had one or two more conferences before they met with the group at the court house February 7. At that time Hauck explained the card system for recording payments on special assessments.

The jury was taken from the room at the request of the defense counsel, while an argument over a point of law took place. Edward Pree cited a Chicago case along the same line as the local case, tending to prove that the state must prove that a crime was committed before a confession is acceptable in evidence. The jury was recalled after the defense objection was overruled, and Chenoweth continued his testimony.

State Attorney Ashber, who is conducting the case for the state, submitted 129 cards from the special assessment account, and asked Chenoweth to identify the handwriting on the cards. Chenoweth testified that it was Hauck's writing. It wasn't until Feb. 16, however, that anything definite was discovered, Chenoweth continued, at which time he was confronted by the auditor from St. Louis who examined the records, and Hauck. The auditor said that he had found figures which Hauck was unable to explain, and at that time Chenoweth said he suggested that Hauck talk with Attorney Samuel. The remainder of Mr. Chenoweth's testimony was virtually the same as that given by Attorney Samuel.

On cross examination, Chenoweth said he had served two terms as city treasurer, and that both he and Hauck were employed in the Ayers National bank, operated by M. F. Dunlap and Andrew Russell. Special assessment 220 originated during his term as treasurer, Chenoweth said. Hauck did not receive any pay from the city for taking care of the special assessment account, Chenoweth said. Money collected by Hauck was kept in a box, the former city treasurer continued, and deposited in a lump sum at the end of each month, with no attempt being made to deposit the money in the accounts for which it was collected. Asked if as far as he knew Hauck had deposited all of the money collected by him to the treasurer's account in the bank, Chenoweth said that as far as he knew at that time Hauck handled all of the money faithfully.

Details of how the money was allegedly diverted from the special assessment funds were related by City Attorney Orville Foreman. Foreman said that he first saw Hauck in connection with the alleged peculations at a meeting held in the jury room at the Morgan County court house, Feb. 7. H. K. Chenoweth, Mr. Diehl, of the firm of Gauger and Diehl, who discovered the shortage in their audit of the special assessment accounts, Mayor W. A. Wainright, Walter Belmont, and State Attorney Wilfred Ashber also were present at that meeting.

The city attorney testified that Hauck was asked about peculations from special assessment 220, and that he admitted that some funds had been removed from the account, at a meeting with the state's attorney Feb. 21, this year. The statement came when the city attorney testified that Hauck was asked about each individual shortage listed in a supplemental report made by Gauger and Diehl, covering the month of March, 1931.

At that time, the city attorney said, Hauck explained that he took in the special assessment as the taxpayers called at the bank, credited the amounts on the cards, and put the money and checks in a box. At the end of the month he deposited the checks and kept the cash. The total checks deposited to the city treasurer's account in the Ayers National Bank was incorporated in the report made out for the treasurer to sign. The cash was put away or used at the end of the month, according to the testimony.

The city attorney also told of a conference in the jury room of the court house, Feb. 7, at which Hauck was present. The meeting was called to discuss the shortage in the special assessment account, as shown in the audit made by Gauger and Diehl. Chenoweth and Hauck were asked at that time what they knew about the shortage, and both at that time said they were unable to understand it. Hauck according to the city attorney, said that he wouldn't believe there was a shortage until he examined the books, and estimated that it would take him from four to five weeks. The city attorney testified that he finally agreed to permit Hauck to examine the books under the supervision of the city, and that he allowed three weeks for the examination.

Chenoweth employed auditors from the Price-Waterhouse firm at St. Louis, and they conducted an examination, at which Hauck was present part of the time, and found that the audit submitted by Gauger and Diehl was substantially correct.

MERCHANTS BIG BARGAIN EVENT TO END TONIGHT

Friday's Response To Ads Reported Good; Expect Crowds Today

Local merchants report good results from the first day of the big sale now in progress in the city. Business was brisk in most of the stores Friday and larger crowds of shoppers are expected in the business section today. The intense heat did not retard the buying, but rather stimulated sales, especially in the summer specialties.

Merchants have large stocks of the bargain goods, and there will be plenty for everybody. The big sale continues today so that people from the rural sections who could not get in yesterday will have ample opportunity to make purchases. Those who bought Friday indicated that they had studied the ads and their own needs, so that they could buy intelligently.

A substantial business was transacted yesterday in the men's clothing lines and in the afternoon the ladies came into the business section in large numbers and their buying greatly stimulated those lines of merchandise in which women are interested. Merchants have made preparations for a big day today. Greatly encouraged by the response from the buying public already received, they are inclined to anticipate even larger sales today. It should be understood that the sale continues the big bargains and low prices advertised thruout today.

Merchants expressed themselves Friday as well satisfied with the sale thus far. The buying public was generous in its patronage, and customers seemed well pleased with their purchases.

Wise buyers will not fail to visit Jacksonville's business district today.

SCHOENFELD IS HELD IN BAIL
FOLLOWING PLEA

Boston, June 1.—(P)—Ward Schoenfeld, described by police as the son of a former mayor of Jacksonville, Ill., and his wife, Dorothy, were held in $2500 bail each for the grand jury in municipal court today after pleading innocence to charges of stealing $85 in an alleged insurance fraud case.

Officers from the Massachusetts Claims Investigating Committee testified that the Schoenfelds and a Merwin Holley "faked" an automobile accident here in January, 1933, for which $85 was collected from an insurance company.

In another count Schoenfeld and Holley were charged with faking an accident in Arlington in March, 1933, and filing a claim. No payment was made on this claim.

The Point neighborhood was represented in the city yesterday by George Simpkin.
